

International Day of People with Disability 2022

The Disability Health Network and the North Metropolitan Health Service invite you to join us in the celebration of International Day of People with Disability.

Our theme this year is supported decision making in health. To raise awareness, this year's event will feature keynote speaker, Dr Piers Gooding, Senior Research Fellow, Melbourne Law School.

The event will feature a thought-provoking panel discussion, challenging supported decision making in health. Panel members include health staff and people with lived experience of disability who will share their insights and perspectives on supported decision making.
